Top Tips for Writing Museum Labels

Don't forget...Your label will be next to your picture in the Museum of Kindness for people to understand what your picture means to you.

Does your picture need a title? If you think yes, then think of a word or words that you would like to represent your picture.

You can make your label as long as you want. Short, medium or long, it's up to you.

Your label could even be an ACROSTIC. If you're not sure what this is, Gabrielle Kent, who is an author who lives in Middlesbrough, can explain it to you in this fun resource.

Get creative while writing your label. It could be a poem, even a rhyming poem. It could be a story, told by you or told by someone in your picture. Maybe it could be a description of what is happening in your picture, including lots of lovely synonyms for the word 'kindness'.

When you are happy with how your label reads, get a grown up to check. It's easy to miss a mistake when we read it ourselves.

Once you have written your label it's time to type it up. Remember to use good grammar, capital letter, full stops, apostrophes and commas.
