

The wood on the poss stick feels as smooth as:

A baby's bottom plastic stroking a horse skin

The metal on the poss stick sounds:

Annoying like a rattlesnake like a steam train on the tracks like thunder

The metal on the poss stick feels:

Crispy hard as death rough as crocodile skin holey as a sponge
Soft as a floor after it has been polished bumpy rusty

The metal on the poss stick feels as cold as:

Antarctica an iceberg snow a winter's day Christmas plastic in a freezer

The colour of the metal is:

Brown as chocolate brown as copper brown as bronze like rust like bark
Like a hedgehog like ginger hair like a fox like a brown bear

The poss stick could be:

A spider killer a plunger a hand held torch a bell a peg leg
A candle holder the key to a door a coat hanger a watering can
A giant golf club a hat a paintbrush a lollipop

The soap smells:

Like bleach as strong as Mr Hartley's socks like sweaty socks
Like washing up liquid like smelly milk like a hospital cringey
Like eating a sour lemon makes you want to squish your face like sick

The poss stick and the soap see:

Muddy clothes underwater water coming out of their eyes bubbles
Water spilling over them dirty, disgusting water smelly water steam
Clean clothes the washboard bubbles on hands cracked hands blisters

The poss stick and the soap feel:

Burned in the hot water nauseous heavy the soap feels pain from all the grating

Furious tired tortured battered the soap feels like grated cheese

Delighted/satisfied that they are doing a good job drowsy ratty exhausted

Like they are being drowned like they must close their eyes bubbly

The soap feels like it is disappearing the soap feels like it is small